

To Whom it May Concern,

I hear that you are currently looking for an old acquaintance of mine from my time in Rome. He is one of the fiercest warriors that I ever fought in my gladiator days, the greatest friend I had in my hometown of Thracia, and goes by the Man of Mystery, or Mr. Mystery. He is a very difficult man to find, but I believe that you have the skills to locate him. Though I am very old, I do happen to know that he has a website, though it isn't a standard one. His funds are very low, so he used a free site builder online. Perhaps searching his site would turn up some clues, however, I can not hand you this information freely, as that would be a breach of trust. To enter his site, you will need a code. This code contains my name and the year I died. If you can find this code, you must enter it in this way:

<https://manofmystery800588.wixsite.com/code>

I wish you luck on your quest and hope that is a fruitful one.

Your comrade,

???
